EVENT DESCRIPTION

The soccer games will be six on six (both men and women) (subject to change), played in two 15 minute halves and a 3 minute half-time (subject to change). The initial games will be played in the morning, with the playoffs in the afternoon. Each team may have as many as 10 players, but may only have 6 players on the field at a time. There will be a grand prize awarded to the overall winner of the tournament, which will also be announced at the Global Extravaganza.

ISO will provide the fields and referees, as well as the rules. Your organization will only need to provide the players and the audience to cheer your team on! Each team should also plan to wear the same colour shirts, as there will be no official uniforms.

Please note that all times are subject to change. All changes will be sent immediately to the participating organizations.

RULES

The rules and regulations of the University are binding and each organization is responsible for knowing them. Failure to comply is grounds for monetary fines to the responsible organization.

Soccer tournament rules are as stated in the official document given with this application.

Since International Week is a time for understanding between different cultures, any bigotry on the basis of race, religion, nationality, or political view will result first with a warning and then disqualification from participation in the Soccer Tournament without a refund of fees.
